I AM BUYING!

Soft spot for Deadwood history

This month's cover of Bank Note Reporter has the image of a No. 1 Deadwood $10 note. The note is part of Stack's Bowers' sale at the American Numismatic Association's World's Fair of Money in Denver this year.

I have a soft spot for Deadwood, as my thesis advisor, and the teacher of various classes I took, was Dr. Watson Parker. Parker wrote what I'm guessing is still the definitive book on the history of Deadwood, titled Deadwood: The Golden Years. He even appeared in a 2004 episode of The History Channel's popular show, "Wild West Tech," talking about Deadwood.

I have paperback and hardcover copies of his Deadwood tome, both nicely inscribed to me by Dr. Parker.

For many years, I had a photocopy of an article from the Advance-Titan, a university newspaper, tacked to the wall above my desk. It was about how he turned from being a dude ranch owner to a university professor.

Dr. Parker died in 2013. Two years prior, he was inducted into the South Dakota Hall of Fame. A Wikipedia page for him says that his Deadwood book was the first book that HBO's "Deadwood" creator and director, David Milch, purchased in doing research for the show.

Besides knowing his stuff about the Black Hills, Dr. Parker taught his students about writing and research. He would stress that, as a writer, you can get a reader to go where you want, but you have to take him there.

E-LETTERS

ANSWERS TO THE BANK NOTE REPORTER POLL QUESTION IN A RECENT E-NEWSLETTER, SENT TO BNR EDITOR ROBERT R. VAN RYZIN

Do you ever use the $2 bills?

I, too, began collecting the $2 notes in 1976 (the year my daughter was born) and continue to find $2 notes, not in circulation but at local banks and credit unions in Bedford, Texas.

I really like to pass them on when buying stuff, because 1.) They confuse people: especially young cashiers who have never seen one and 2.) because older cashiers exclaim they want to give them to grand kids.

I always give them out as birthday and Christmas presents as well.

One member of our Tarrant County Coin Club (Bedford, Texas) collected a few thousand dollars worth and paid for an anniversary cruise with $2 notes.

My preference is collecting $2 star notes and error printed notes.

Name and address withheld

I use them all the time. I have gone through about $300 so far this year. I leave them for tips at restaurants. They are great for starting conversations, and the server will remember you the next time you go back.

*Ken Felty
Yuma, Ariz.*

I only save $2 bills, never spend them as currency.

Larry Kling

I've been spending new, crisp $2 bills for well over 10+ years. out here in the San Fernando Valley.

I spend them in the grocery store, laundry, all restaurants—just about anywhere here in Los Angeles.

Since 1999, I've been spending new state quarters, and since 2007, new Presidential dollars and Sacagawees.

All the clerks get a smile on their face, especially if the amount purchased will result in them getting everything—some $2 bills, some Presidential dollars, and some new state quarters. (If my purchase is $27.85, I'll pay with a $20, two $2s, three Presidential dollars, three state quarters, and two 2004 nickels (Ocean View).

They love it, remember me, and it's nice to get a smile from them when I come in again (and again), spending my "new cool money" (as they say).

Although some banks take orders for new $2 bills year round, my bank downstairs only takes orders in November/December, for holiday giving. So I order a new wrapped $2 brick, which as $2,000 face value, which lasts me well over a year, when used in conjunction with the Presidential dollars.

I consider myself the Johnny Appleseed of Numismatics for Los Angeles.

Fred Weinberg Encino, Calif.

I have kept a supply and used these notes from the 1980s to date. In my opinion, the reverse design is what makes the note interesting and inspiring.

Beyond that, they are nearly surefire ways to commence a conversation with anyone as an icebreaker. I have used them to place tips in various restaurants making certain to place them directly into the hands of my server, with a slight gesture, so as to catch their attention. After all, this rushed society might pass them off as single dollars and utilize them as such. Otherwise, they are smile makers in every instance.

I have seen people pass on my efforts to pay them with these, as a few folks are superstitious and take their belief to heart. Many have had the problem of not having a dedicated $2 note tray in their registers. So, the note gets stashed underneath the entire tray and forgotten soon afterward.

As a result, one wonders how many people came up "S2 short" over the years while they attempted reconciliation of their cash at day's end?

Long live our Little Deuce note, I say.

Paul V. Battaglia, Milford, N.H.

Short snorter find bears royal sigs

For this month, I am going to vary from the normal format of "Notes on National Banks" and bring to you what I think is a very historically interesting piece of paper money that I recently picked up. I hope you will enjoy the story.

A couple months back, I was at a small club coin show in central Pennsylvania. There really wasn't much to buy, as I had seen many of the same dealers the past month at another local show. As I perused the offerings, I came across one fellow who had mostly U.S. coins, but did have a very small box with some foreign paper money. So I flipped through it.

There really wasn't much of interest in the box, and what was there was priced at full catalog value. But I did spy a very common piece of Allied Military Currency issued for use by U.S. troops in France during World War II. It was a small square 10-franc note, one of the lowest denominations. Normally, I wouldn't even give such an item a moment's notice, but this one had some signatures on it, and I like signed notes of the period.

The dealer had labeled it a "short snorter," a term that has come to encompass any World War II-era note that has a lot of signatures on it, usually of U.S. and/or foreign soldiers. The original idea of the "short snorter" had to do with crossing the international dateline (and thus shorting a day) or just acquiring signatures of everyone on a particular military flight.

However, it seems as if just about everyone was signing currency during World War II, so the term has come to cover all signed notes.

On the face of it, the note had two signatures that I could not make out at all, and I am pretty good at reading old style cursive. I flipped it over and a few more were on the back. In the bottom margin, I used a magnifying glass to read what appeared to say "Aspasia, Princess of Greece." I know a good deal about European royalty, but I had never heard of any "Aspasia." Just the same, the asking price was very modest, so I bought it.

When I got home, I examined the note further. Two signatures on the back center were illegible to me—I believe they are not in English. Along the left margin, the signature "Alexandra R" underlined was easily readable. Regular people do not put "R" after their signatures—that letter normally signifies royalty, either for Regina (queen) or Rex (king). This was beginning to look good.

I immediately went online and here is what I found out. Aspasia was Aspasia Monos, a Greek commoner who became the wife of Alexander I, king of the Greeks, daughter of Col. Petros Manos, aide of King Constantine I of Greece. Aspasia grew close to the royal family. After the divorce of her parents, she was sent to study in Switzerland. She returned to Greece in 1915 and met Prince Alexander, with whom she became secretly engaged to, due to the expected refusal of the royal family to recognize the relationship of Alexander I with a woman who didn't belong to one of the European ruling dynasties.

Greece's difficult position during World War I caused the abdication of King Constantine and Alexander became king in 1917. He secretly married Aspasia on Nov. 17, 1919. When the Greek public learned of this, a huge scandal erupted, and Aspasia was forced to leave the country. Eventually she was reunited with her husband and returned to Greece. Due to the fact that her marriage had not been approved by the Metropolitan, the head of the Greek Orthodox Church, she was not entitled to be called queen. During the summer of 1920, she became pregnant.

Things then took a turn for the worse. On Oct. 2, 1920, King Alexander was walking on the royal estate at Tatoi when the pet macaque monkey of the vine keeper got into a fight with Alexander's dog, Fritz. When Alexander attempted to separate them, the macaque bit him. Alexander thought it nothing, but the wounds became infected, and Alexander died on Oct. 25. Now Aspasia had no title and was 4 months pregnant.

The back of the 10-franc note. The signature of Aspasia, Princess of Greece, is at bottom margin. The signature of Queen Alexandra of Yugoslavia is a left margin, and the signature of King Peter II of Yugoslavia is at top margin. I have been unable to decipher the two signatures at the center of the note; they appear to be in non-English script.

King Constantine was restored to the throne at the end of 1920. When Aspasia gave birth to a girl, Alexandra, on March 25, 1921, King Constantine and his wife, Queen Sofia, fell for the child. Since only a male could succeed to the throne of Greece, the new baby was no threat.

King Constantine eventually got the child Alexandra the title of Royal Highness Princess of Greece and Denmark. It wasn't until the end of 1922 that he also was able to maneuver a decree giving Aspasia also the title of Princess of Greece.

Fast forward to World War II. Events in Greece had forced Aspasia and Princess Alexandra to move to Italy and then to Egypt and South Africa. In 1941, they were allowed to move to the United Kingdom, which was then hosting a variety of exiled royals from Nazi-occupied countries. They arrived in Liverpool and eventually settled in the Mayfair district of London. It was there, in 1942, that Alexandra met her third-cousin, King Peter II of Yugoslavia, at an officers' gala. They fell for each other and considered marriage, but the objections of Peter's mother and the Yugoslav government-in-exile prevented the marriage until 1944, when on March 20, they were married at the Yugoslav Embassy in London. Britain's King George VI was in attendance.

Alexandra, the daughter of Princess Aspasia and King Alexander of Greece, was now Queen of Yugoslavia. She signed the note "Alexandra R" sometime in late 1944 or 1945.

But there's more. Once I learned who "Alexandra R" was, I looked carefully at the note again. On the top margin was another signature. Sure enough, it was her husband, who signed "Peter II R" as King Peter II of Yugoslavia. Peter had become the boy-king of Yugoslavia in 1934 when his father, King Alexander of Yugoslavia, was assassinated during a visit to Marseille, France. In 1941, Peter was forced to flee Yugoslavia when it was invaded by the Nazis, and ended up, along with his government-in-exile, in London where he met Alexandra.

The king completed his education at Cambridge University before being commissioned in the Royal Air Force. In 1942, he made an ambassadorial visit to America and Canada, where he met American President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Canadian Prime Minister William King Peter II and Queen Alexandra of Yugoslavia at a function in England circa 1945.

Lyon MacKenzie King. The whirlwind tour was unsuccessful in securing Allied support for the exiled Yugoslav monarchist cause. Roosevelt and Churchill had already engaged the support of the Communist Yugoslav Government in the Allied effort to defeat Nazi Germany, with a view to ending the hostilities.

This photo of Aspasia's daughter, Princess Alexandra, on the day of her wedding to King Peter II of Yugoslavia. She has autographed the photo.

Peter and Alexandra never returned to Yugoslavia. When the war ended, the Yugoslav Communist Constituent Assembly deposed him and abolished the monarchy. He settled in the United States and died in 1970. Queen Alexandra died in 1993 in the United Kingdom. Princess Aspasia, Alexandra's mother, died in 1972 in Italy.

How did these three notables end up signing this simple piece of Allied Military Currency? Most likely in London, but for whom I will never know. Somehow, it ended up in the United States only to be discovered in a "junk" box decades later. Several other signatures grace the note, but I can't make them out—several appear to be in Cyrillic. If any of my readers can make out a signature or has a good guess, please let me know. I have included photos of both sides of the note as well as photos of the personalities involved.

Rarities abound in Heritage sale

The finest known Friedberg 1218f 1882 $1,000 Gold Certificate is expected to be a top-selling star of Heritage's upcoming Platinum Night Currency Signature Auction. The sale, in conjunction with the American Numismatic Association's World's Fair of Money, is slated for Aug. 3 at the Colorado Convention Center in Denver.

The rarity is graded PCGS Very Fine 35 and is estimated at $300,000 and up. Friedberg catalog listings for the $1,000 Gold Certificates cover eight different numbers, based on different signature combinations of the Register of the Treasury and the Treasurer of the United States.

Judson W. Lyons and Ellis H. Roberts served from 1898 to June 1905, when this note was printed and likely issued.

According to the cataloger, "just eleven examples are listed in the census by serial number, one more than the last time this note was offered and realized $293,750."

This rare Fr. 1218f 1882 $1,000 Gold Certificate is estimated at $300,000 and up.

Described as a "stunning gem Rainbow," this $20 Legal Tender Note is grade PCGS Gem NewPPQ.

A top-notch error rarity is also featured in the sale. It's an 1875 Original Series double-denomination note, ex Albert A. Grinnell Collection, that is expected to draw spirited bidding. The $10/$20 note is on the National Bank of Middlebury, Vt., charter 1195, Fr. 412.

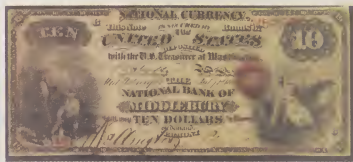

"In twenty years of publicly archived currency auctions, we have handled just one other Original Series Double Denomination, a far inferior $10/$20 from Springfield, Massachusetts," the cataloger wrote. The note is graded PCGS Very Fine 25 and is estimated at $60,000 to $80,000.

Described as a "stunning gem Rainbow $20" is an 1869 $20 Legal Tender Note in PCGS Gem NewPPQ. The Fr. 127 is estimated at $50,000 and up.

Thought to be worth a similar amount is an 1863 $20 Interest Bearing Note, Fr. 197a, PCGS Very Fine 35. Of the 16 submissions of this Friedberg number to all of the grading services combined, this note "is tied for second finest known, with an About New example listed at PCGS."

A "finest PMG graded" 1882 Gold Certificate, in PMG Super Gem Unc 67EPQ, is also estimated at $50,000 and up.

"This lone note is the only Superb Gem graded by PMG for the entire series," according to the cataloger. "PMG does not spare any accolades in describing this piece, including

A double denomination $10/$20 is a rare Original Series note.

'Exceptional Paper Quality, Great Embossing, [and] Great Margins,' on the back of the holder."

Other top lots in the Heritage auction include:

An 1882 $20 Gold Certificate, Fr. 1178, is graded PMG Superb Gem Unc 67EPQ.

- United States 1877 4 percent Loan of 1907 $50 Consols Bond Hessler X166A, PCGS Very Fine 30, $40,000 to $60,000.

- 1882 $50 Brown Back, The Exchange National Bank of Pittsburgh, Pa., Fr. 508, charter 1057, PCGS Gem New 65, $30,000 to $50,000.

- 1883 $50 Triple Signature Gold Certificate, Fr. 1189a, PMG Fine 12, $35,000 and up.

- 1907 $1,000 Gold Certificate, Fr. 1219e, PMG Very Fine 30, $35,000 and up.

RARE GERMAN JEFFERSON HEAD BRINGS RECORD PRICE AT AUCTION

At the June 1971 Lyn Knight Auction in Kansas City, on a floor bid, a presumably unwatermarked RGJ 2.5 MBNS W, E & S, HEAL/D 51, 507.50 in the PMG CH UNC 6.3 grade, 2.5 mean green from black back. The 3 back red serial #'s were actually west, southwest and east. The east 3 cannot be confirmed as different from SW (likely it's the same) as the last digit & letter were printed off the paper (Thus 1 serial #'s, confirmed 2 different). Despite the increase in value, we're holding the line on prices for similar German multilateral Jeffers. These are from the German Discovery Group of a few years ago (no other Giro discovery pieces of any kind have shown up since). Those remaining are roughly as nice and are actually priced less (see below). These include color combos 2.5 and 5.2, which colors are of equal rarity.

GIORI TEST CURRENCY

Above photo is of a Washington-in-the-Middle Grassgreen "rectangle above building" uniface vertical pair. This type was used to test the Magna Presses in 1976, and was printed at the Geneva PTY (in Ch. under gov't auspice) in 1902. We estimated that about 450 pair of them had survived. After a dozen years, this still seems accurate. Full 12-subject sheets were printed, and we assume we have 3 for sale. We have also located several at other Washingtons in stock (including individual pairs) for a limited time (see below).

Deadwood No. 1 $10 among ANA lots

Harking back to the Old West, and the days of Calamity Jane and Wild Bill Hickok, a $10 note described by the cataloger as of the calibre "that [it] would sell itself, with simply a picture..." will be offered by Stack's Bowers as part of its Official United States U.S. Currency Auction of the ANA's World's Fair Money. The sale is slated for Aug. 2 at the Colorado Convention Center in Denver.

The Series 1882 serial No. 1 Deadwood, S.D. $10 Brown Back, Fr. 487, on The American National Bank of Deadwood, charter 4983, is graded PCGS Very Fine 30PPQ.

It's estimated to bring $60,000 to $80,000.

The auction company said of the note's provenance, "It came to us from a Pennsylvania estate with a group of other lightly circulated but nondescript large size notes. One can only assume that decades ago a collector was at the right place at the right time when this Western trophy made its way out of a banking family's holdings."

Speculation is that it may have been saved by the bank's cashier, Ben Baer, or its president, Harris Franklin.

"Deadwood has a well-documented and colorful history," the cataloger wrote. "Thanks to former residents like Wyatt Earp, Wild Bill Hickok, and Seth Bullock, among others, the town ranks in terms of national recognition with cities like Tombstone and Dodge City for its Old West lore. And unlike Dodge City, for which notes don't exist from its glory days, or for Tombstone, where nationals were not issued until the 20th century, banknotes from 19th century Deadwood,

This No. 1 1882 $10 note from The American National Bank of Deadwood, S.D., is the second documented to this bank.

A 1928 Atlanta Federal Reserve Note, Fr. 2220-F, is estimated at $125,000 to $175,000.

while few and far between, are out there."

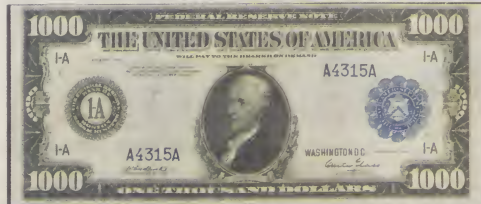

Of all Deadwood banks combined, Stack's Bowers estimates about a dozen notes are known with an issue date before 1900. This note is the second to be documented from The American National Bank of Deadwood. Being from the first sheet, its release date would have been 1894, the same year as the charter date. The other known note on the bank was from the same sheet and listed without a grade. "It is included in the census with a different plate letter. While slight, that is the only piece of evidence to suggest that it is not the same note here."

The American National Bank closed in 1905 after issuing 2,905 sheets of $10 and $20 Brown Backs.

Other top lots in the Stack's Bowers ANA auction include a "fully original" 1928 Atlanta $5,000 Federal Reserve Note, Fr. 2220-F, in PCGS Very Fine 30PPQ. It is estimated at $125,000 to $175,000. "The 1928 series notes are vastly more scarce than their 1934 counterparts. PCGS has graded a scant six pieces for the catalog number. It lands as the second finest on the PCGS population report, the finest a 45PPQ."

A 1918 $1,000 Boston Federal Reserve Note, Fr. 1133-A, in PCGS Extremely Fine 40PPQ will cross the block. This newly discovered example is "just the fifth known note for the catalog number and is the finest of that limited group" and is thought to be worth between $80,000 and $100,000.

This 1918 $1,000 Boston Federal Reserve Note, Fr. 1133-A, in PCGS Extremely Fine 40PPQ is a newly discovered piece and is estimated at $80,000 to $100,000.

For Confederate note collectors, the auction features The Cleo Collection, described as "a complete type collection of Confederate treasury notes of incredible quality."

Additional notes of interest include:

- 1902 $10 Red Seal, The First National Bank of Bellingham, Wash., Fr. 613, charter 7372, PCGS Extremely Fine 45PPQ, $40,000 to $60,000.

- T-1 1861 Confederate $1,000, PMG Extremely Fine 40 Net Repaired, $30,000 to $50,000.

- 1875 $100 Legal Tender Note, PMG Very Fine 25 Net Repaired, Minor Rust, Fr. 169, $32,500 to $42,500.

- 1923 $10 Legal Tender "Poker Chip," Fr. 123, PCGS Superb Gem New 67PPQ, $30,000 to $40,000.

- 1886 $5 Silver Certificate, Fr. 263, PCGS Gem New 66PPQ, $30,000 to $40,000.

For additional information, visit www.stacksofaweb.com.

A 1902 $10 Red Seal, The First National Bank of Bellingham, Wash., Fr. 613, is thought to be worth $40,000 to $60,000.

Its distinctive back gives this note its nickname "Poker Chip." This specimen of Fr. 123, which has Andrew Jackson on its face, is graded PCGS Superb Gem New 67PPQ.

The BEP records are loaded with correspondence pertaining to misprints. The following example is a particularly detailed accounting and, because the note is reported, it is worth reproducing here. Besides, the last letter in this string was written two days before I was born.

The correspondence transcribed is from the BEP Central Correspondence Files, U.S. National Archives, College Park, Md., record locator 318:450/79/16/02-03/boxes 292-295 (1942).

Mr. Alvin W. Hall, Director
Bureau of Engraving & Printing
Washington, D.C.

Dear Mr. Hall:

For your information our agent at Birmingham, Alabama, received on August 4, 1942, from the Federal Reserve Branch Bank at Birmingham, one $1 Silver Certificate, Series of 1935A, check letter "J", face plate 3950, back plate 2425, the upper right serial number is X67939728B, while the lower left hand number is X67939738B. The note was detected at the bank when a payroll was being made up for the Army. This note was received by the Federal Reserve Branch Bank at Birmingham, July 1, 1942, in a shipment of $1 Silver Certificates from the Treasury, June 30, 1942, amounting to $200,000, serial numbers 67768001 to 67968000. This note was shown to Mr. Long, Assistant Director [of the BEP], on August 14, 1942.

Very truly yours,
Frank J. Wilson
Chief, U.S. Secret Service

Memorandum
August 21, 1942

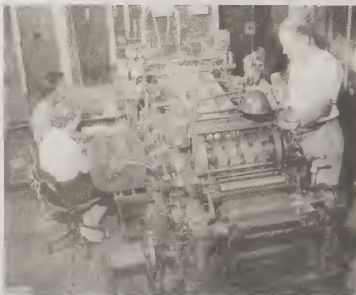

For Mr. Shreve:

In reply to letter from Mr. Frank J. Wilson, Chief, U. S. Secret Service, concerning a $1 Silver Certificate, Series 1935A, lower left serial number X67939738B and upper right serial number X67939728B, you are advised as follows.

Our records indicate that on May 6, 1942, Mrs. Annie E. Wood examined and counted $1 Silver Certificates including a package containing the above numbered note. Mrs. Wood's work report of that date shows that in examining ten packages of this work, forty-nine star notes were substituted. It is, therefore, assumed that a hang-up occurred in the numbering block and that the hang-up on this note was overlooked in the course of examining. Mrs. Wood has been an examiner since December 8, 1928, and has a very good record.

This mock-up shows what the note under discussion looked like.

This is a 12-subject serial numbering and sealing press of the type that produced the $1 1935A mismatch treated here. The machines were manufactured by the Miehle Printing Press and Manufacturing Co. of Chicago and had a capacity of 4,200 sheets per hour. The feed stock was loaded in a bin behind the machine and each sheet was picked up and fed into the press by suction devices at the ends of the vacuum hoses at the top of the photo. The two pairs of women on the sides of the machine received the cut and collated notes from the respective sides of the sheets, and arranged the notes for inspection and packaging. Notice that the press and all the personnel are indeed inside a cage. BEP Historical Resource Center photo.

This note was part of package numbered X67936001B to X67940000B. It was numbered May 5, 1942, in cage #1 by pressman Henry S. Rider. The receivers were Martha Replogle and Ella C. Schlegel.

Respectfully,
Jack I. Lowd

Reader's Showcase

Peter Huntoon

Notes issued by the Grange national banks of Pennsylvania always have been a popular but difficult pursuit by determined collectors. The Grange movement, founded after the Civil War in 1867, was officially organized as The National Grange of the Order of Patrons of Husbandry. It was a fraternal agricultural organization that fought for economic and political welfare of farmers. It remains the oldest American agricultural advocacy group with a national scope. The key issues that they fought against were predatory railroad tariffs and grain elevator commodity pricing. Many Granges operated their own grain elevators. Their advocacy also was instrumental in the establishment of rural free mail delivery. A dozen Grange national banks were organized in Pennsylvania between 1906 and 1908, all in medium to small towns. The toughest to collect are the notes from The Grange National Bank of Clarion County at Sligo, which had by far the smallest issuance; specifically, a total of only 961 sheets of 5-5-5 and 10-10-20 1902 Red Seals and Date Backs. The penned-signed Date Back $10 illustrated, which bears sheet serial 81, is the only reported survivor, a note brought in by Jess Lipka. The note is signed by J.B. Morrison, president, and Roy Edgar, cashier. One thing that makes Grange notes from this bank so scarce is that the bank was renamed The Sligo National Bank on Feb. 21, 1913, thus restricting its Grange title to the 1907 and 1913 period.

Bureau of Engraving and Printing
Washington, D.C.
August 25, 1942

Mr. Frank J. Wilson, Chief
United States Secret Service
Treasury Department
Washington, D.C.

Dear Mr. Wilson:

Reference is made to your letter of August 18, 1942, reporting the receipt by your agent at Birmingham, Alabama, of a one-dollar silver certificate, check letter "J", serially numbered X67939728B in the upper right corner and X67939738B in the lower left corner.

According to the numbering plan for currency, X67939738B is the correct serial number for a note with check letter "J". Our records show that the package which included this note was examined and counted on May 6, 1942. The examiner's work report for that date indicates that 49 notes in the package were found to be mutilated and were replaced with star notes, because of imperfections apparently due to a hang-up in the numbering block. The particular note in question should also have been replaced, but was inadvertently overlooked in the course of examination. The examiner who failed to detect this note has been cautioned to exercise more care in the performance of her duties, and the error has been noted against her record.

Very truly yours,

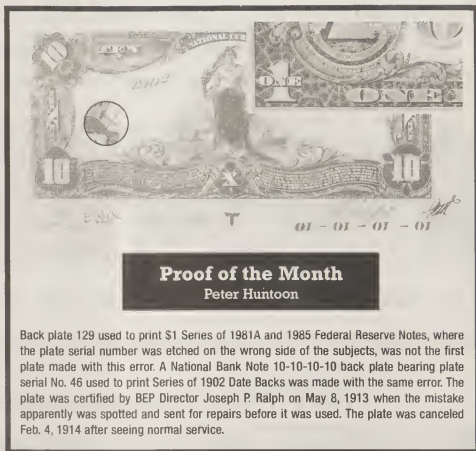

C.R. Long

Acting Director

Technical notes

The Series of 1935 notes were serial numbered on 12-subject bicolour rotary presses that not only numbered the sheets but also cut the notes from them. It then collated the notes from respective sides of the sheets in serial number order. The serial numbers in a given print run were divided in half with the low numbers assigned to the right side of the sheets and the high numbers to the left. Numbering of the respective halves was down the sheet from top to bottom in increasing order.

The size of print runs in those days was variable; however, care was taken to mate the serial numbers with the correct plate position so that if you divided the serial number by 6, the residual fraction would yield the plate position. In this case 67939738 divided by 6 yields 11323289 and 4/6ths, which places the serial number on either the D or J position.

The mismatch under consideration involved the J plate position. It appeared on every sixth note in the sequence coming from the right side of the sheets for as long as the problem persisted. For this reason, Mrs. Wood can be forgiven for missing the note in question because the errors were not consecutive, which would have made them easier to find and replace once she spotted the first one.

The correspondence reproduced here refers to "packages" of notes. These packages are not what we call packs of 100 notes, but rather are what we call bricks, which number 4,000 notes. Lowd's letter states that Wood examined 10 packages of the notes on May 6, 1942, in which she found and replaced 49 misprints. In contrast, Long's letter says that the 49 misprints came from the package containing the mismatch, which sounds more plausible.

Whether all 49 of the misprints that Woods caught and replaced were mismatches is unknown. Is it possible that X67939738-28B was the only one in the run to have escaped her inspection. Or did she miss others?

A part of the story I would love to know is just how the employee at the branch of the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta at Birmingham spotted the mismatch while making up the Army payroll. The note was the 38th note down in the pack of 100, not a note that you would be paying much attention to as you counted out the notes.

Postscript

This exact note is recorded in Fred Bart's United States Paper Money Errors, 3rd Edition, Krause Publications, on p. 186, where it is listed as Xxxxxxx38B-Xxxxxxx28B. Obviously, this note is now in numismatic hands. I contacted Fred to see if he had a record of where he saw it or if he knew its current whereabouts. The answer was no to both questions. It would be very interesting to learn how it got away from the Secret Service. If you have it, please send a scan.

China and Middle East featured

Late August through early September Archives International Auctions will be conducting a live catalog sale from its offices in Fort Lee, N.J.

That catalog was still a work in progress at the time of writing. However, the processing of notes from two significant collections was well under way. These alone make the catalog required reading for world paper money collectors.

Front and center is a strong collection of Middle Eastern notes from Iraq, Morocco, Jordan, Libya, Lebanon, etc., etc. There is room for just four examples here:

- Banque de Syrie et du Liban one livre specimen 1939, P-15s, PCGS Choice New 63;

- Banque d'Etat du Maroc, (c. 1938), specimen 5,000 francs, P-23s, UNC (staple holes);

- Iraq 1/4 dinar, L. 1931 (1935), P-7e, PCGS Very Fine 35;

- Iraq 10 dinars, L. 1947 (1950), P-31, PMG graded Very Fine 25.

Secondly are further selections of Chinese rarities from the Pogrebetsky Family Archives. AIA is gaining a reputation for producing sleepers out of this particular hat. Perhaps a May 1939 two jiao temporary issue of the Lan County Bureau of Finances

Rare Banque d'Etat du Maroc, 5,000 francs specimen, P-23s, in UNC to be offered at AIA's live catalog sale in late August-early September.

French text Canadian 1935 $10 (P-45; BC-8) comes graded EF. That's Princess Mary at left.

in Shanxi Province will prove one such. If not, there are nine similar early Communist notes on offer.

For collectors into issues of the Americas this is the sale that will feature the Panama papers described in BNR's last issue. Alternatively, how about an issued Banque Du Canada 1935 $10 (P-45; BC-8) in EF?

As is usual the AIA catalog is rich in U.S. notes, coins, scripophily, bonds and security printing ephemera. Full details and bidding information will be posted at the Archives International website: www.ArchivesInternational.com in due course. For a hard copy of the catalog email: info@archivesinternational.com or by mail: Archives International Auctions, 1580 Lemoine Ave, Suite #7, Fort Lee, NJ 07024.

One of 10 early Communist issues on offer: May 1939 Lan County Bureau of Finances temporary exchange note two jiao. The denomination is in the two boxes, the serial number is hand-written, and the seals at the bottom are those of the chairman and head of the Bureau of Finance.

Knight to host new show

LFK Tradeshows has announced an addition to its line of shows, with the Aug. 25-26 debut of the Illinois Coin & Paper Money Show.

According to show owner Lyn Knight, the show, to be held at the Gateway Convention Center in Collinsville, Ill., will feature the finest collection of Illinois National Bank Notes, as part of the show auction.

For additional information on the show or auction visit www.lynknight.com.

Lyn Knight Currency Auctions presents:

The Illinois Collection

August 26-27, 2017

Gateway Convention Center, Collinsville, IL

This collection will be sold on Friday and Saturday, August 26 & 27. There will be a paper money, coin, and historical artifact show on the 26 & 27 in conjunction with this sale.

This is what I believe is the most complete town collection of IL NBNs ever assembled, built between 1975 and 2012. This collection offers a window into the history and growth of Illinois and National Bank Note history.

2017 $2 note collection offered

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing has introduced to the 2017 $2 Single Note Collection, featuring Series 2013 $2 notes from the New York, Atlanta, and San Francisco Federal Reserve Banks and a Series 2009 note from the Dallas Federal Reserve Bank with non-matching serial numbers beginning with 2017.

Each note is protected by a clear, acid-free polymer sleeve in a folder representative of the corresponding Federal Reserve District.

A limit of 25 sets per household is in place during the pre-release period, Aug. 1-7. The pricing for the 2017 $2 Single Note Collection is $29.95.

Unrestricted set and individual note sales begin Aug. 8, while supplies last.

Individual notes by bank designation are $7.95 per note. Bulk pricing for quantities of 50 or more by bank designation are $7.50 per note. The 2017 $2 Single Note Collection is limited to 5,000 total sets and is offered during calendar year 2017 only.

The new Bureau of Engraving and Printing 2017 $2 Single Note Collection features Series 2013 and Series 2009 notes from four Federal Reserve Banks.

Paper Money MARKET

Monthly U.S. Paper Money Price Guide

Kansas City is now the new Memphis

Kansas City turned out to be the new Memphis, indeed.

Attendance at the International Paper Money Show in Kansas City, Mo. was good. The venue was attractive. And dealers who I talked to were generally pleased with the show—either with sales, purchases, or both.

Next year, however, as I write this, is up in the air, as Lyn Knight has so far been unable to book the show at the same venue in June. There is some possibility that it might be scheduled for late May, or at another venue, but for now uncertainty reigns.

I enjoyed conversations at the show. I talked with Mike Coltrane, a North Carolina National Bank Note collector who was enjoying the show, and Gary Neal, who is the low-ball collection winner at PCGS for his collection of really ugly Funny Backs.

I also talked with Jason Bradford at PCGS to get an explanation of new grade reporting on the holders.

PCGS will no longer use "Apparent" on the face of a note with a major problem. It will italicize the grade number and report defects on the back of the holder. Minor defects will result in no PPQ, but will be noted on the back.

At the PMG table, I talked with grader Chad Greenbach, who explained that PMG will not note "Net" on the face of the holder for minor problems such as tiny tears not into the design or other minor defects. It will note them on the back of the holder, but not EPQ the note. Major defects will still be identified on the face of the holder as "Net" grades.

So, if you're looking at a note on various websites and don't see "net" or "apparent" on a PMG- or PCGS-graded note, look for comments on the back, if the note is not identified as EPQ or PPQ.

I have noted that Lyn Knight and Heritage have lately been listing comments noted on the backs of holders.

Notes with EPQ and PPQ are, of course, still held to high standards of original paper, etc.

Another word to the wise is that you must check out the Eric Newman Portal on your computer. It is available at nnp.

wustl.edu.

This site is amazing.

It lists numerous club publications. Numismatists of Wisconsin is one of the latest additions. There are lots of additional categories.

I checked out Heath Counterfeit Detectors and found every edition.

Just click on the pages and look at the entire book, one page at a time. It is amazing.

Market prices seem fairly stable, although real bargains seem to exist in early small-size Silver Certificates and early circulated Federal Reserve Notes. This includes star notes.

I still see amazing variations at auction with regard to small-size Federal Reserve Bank notes. This is especially true with regard to Internet-only auctions.

You will also see some real bargains on weekly Tuesday Heritage auctions. Just don't let excitement of the moment over power you. I try a low bid and stick with it. Sometimes it works.

As always send questions and comments to billbrandimore@charter.net.

Coming demise of traveler's checks

In the pursuit of certain types of numismatic items, some social trends are fairly obvious; others not so much. The steady decline in the use of traveler's checks has been going since the 1990s. Around that time, a variety of more convenient alternatives, such as credit cards, debit cards and other means of payment became more widely available and were easier for travelers to use.

Traveler's checks are no longer widely accepted and cannot easily be cashed, even at the banks that issue them. Other factors that have led to a decline in their use include the fees charged by the issuer and agent, as well as the less favorable foreign exchange rate commonly used, especially compared with those on some types of credit cards.

The widespread acceptance of credit cards and debit cards around the world, starting in the 1980s and 1990s, significantly replaced the use of traveler's checks for paying for things while on vacation. In 2005, American Express introduced the American Express Travelers Cheque Card, a stored-value card that serves the same purposes as a traveler's check, but one that can be used in stores like a credit card. For some reason this card was discontinued in October 2007.

A typical four-page Letter of Indication used in the earlier 20th century showing spaces for the various functions of the form plus the signature of the bearer at bottom. Printer was TDLR.

A number of other financial companies went on to issue stored-value or pre-paid debit cards containing several currencies that could be used like credit or debit cards at shops and at ATMs, mimicking the traveler's check in electronic form. One of the major examples is the Visa TravelMoney card (which I never knew of until I read about it on the Internet).

Traveler's checks were a natural result of the gradual easing of the difficulties of overseas traveling and the increase in world business ventures that were forming in the late 19th and earlier 20th centuries. Before the advent of these special checks it was quite a cumbersome process for a traveler. You had to have a Letter of Indication and a Circular Note for some amount, perhaps other documents as well to prove who you were and that you were the individual authorized to pay using the amount shown.

In the United States credit is generally given to American

A Scottish bank used this form of Circular Note to go along with the Letter of Indication. The signature line is prominently shown. Printer is not given.

This fully margined and unissued Circular Letter of Credit (in French) for 10 pounds sterling mentions the Letter of Indication and the signature requirements. The example shown is an error with text from the back having been printed vertically on the face as illustrated.

Benjamin Bell

March 8, 1976 – April 10, 2017

I recently moved to Arizona to work full time at World Numismatics' headquarters. These past few weeks have been very exciting for us yet that joy has been clouded by the recent passing of our colleague Benjamin Bell. Ben passed away on Monday, April 10, after a long, hard fought battle with cancer, his loving family at his side. Well educated in traditional historic studies, Ben worked as a numismatist at Classical Numismatic Group and was the co-founder, co-owner and President of Civitas Galleries, Ltd. In a world where many numismatists have grudges against one or more of their colleagues, Ben was one of only a very few loved and respected by everyone, and was duly considered one of the rising stars in professional numismatics. By our great many conversations, I can attest to his deep love of coins, extensive knowledge and impeccable work ethics. He was snatched far too soon from the coin world, and will be dearly missed. Our thoughts and prayers are with his parents, Rob and Rebecca and his sister Rachel.

This is an image of the 10-pound Circular Note of 1874 that the English claim to fame is based upon.

Express for the development of the traveler's check in 1891. An employee named Marcellus F. Berry devised this form at the request of his boss, James C. Fargo, that he produce a payment method that would be widely accepted, yet protected against loss, theft, forgery or damage. As it happened, Berry had a flair for invention that had resulted in a number of patents and copyrights to his credit. These ideas were mainly useful in the banking industry, and Berry was affectionately named "The Edison of Finance." Thus it was no surprise that President Fargo approached him with the task. On July

A large format Circular Note was used in the 1890s by Thomas Cook and Son in London. Printer is not shown.

7, 1891, Berry's check design with the two-signature requirement received U.S. copyrights 24775 through 24778.

It occurs at times that England claims to have developed such a check years before American Express. The basis for this claim is a pair of Circular Notes for five and 10 pounds originated by a famous-name Englishman, Thomas Cook, in 1874. An image of the 10-pound note is provided; it mentions the Letter of Indication bearing a signature of the individual Cook says can receive payment.

To me this is not a true traveler's check but simply the manifestation of the old method of payment. I do not know when the Circular Note idea was initiated; it was certainly no earlier than the mid-19th century. But like the traveler's check of today being used less and less, their heyday

For some reason Thomas Cook found it necessary to issue both traveler's checks and circular notes during the same years. This smaller format piece was used in 1920. Printer was BW.

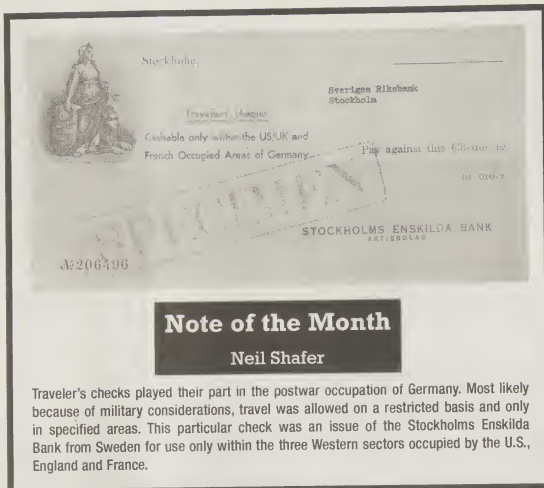

A Thomas Cook traveler's check with exchange rates was used before World War I. Printer was once again BW.

Here is Marcellus F. Berry, inventor of the American Express traveler's check the company introduced in 1891.

Note of the Month

Neil Shafer

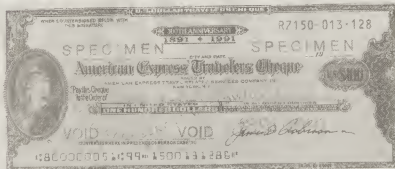

Traveler's checks played their part in the postwar occupation of Germany. Most likely because of military considerations, travel was allowed on a restricted basis and only in specified areas. This particular check was an issue of the Stockholms Enskilda Bank from Sweden for use only within the three Western sectors occupied by the U.S., England and France.

passed rather quickly as they were victims of the advancement demonstrated by Berry's two-signature formula.

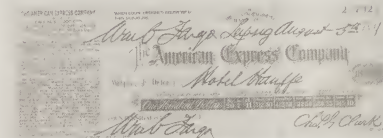

In 1991 American Express made much of the centennial of the advent of their traveler's check system. For one thing, all checks and ancillary documents and papers carried a special 100-year logo, for use only in 1991. AmEx also produced a replica of Berry's 1891 check combined with a back design explaining about the check. Not only were paper replicas made, they also produced this same piece in sterling silver held in a presentation box—quite an outstanding item.

What about the collector's view with respect to the area of traveler's checks? In 1964 when I first became interested in the possibility of collecting such instruments, they were available on occasion in Specimen form from the various issuing banks that used such pieces to advertise their use while traveling. Used examples were difficult to find but when they appeared they were considered to be of lower value than the Specimens. A few dollars apiece was all the market allowed on any of them, Specimen or used. I thought that more collectors should be aware

All American Express traveler's checks issued only in 1991 used this general centennial commemorative format.

The 1891-1991 replica AmEx centennial check shown here was made in paper and silver.

Spain's Banco de Bilbao also issued a commemorative traveler's check for $50 in honor of the New York World's Fair of 1964-65.

A lovely set of German traveler's checks with a ship vignette and exchange rates was used in the earlier 20th century. Printer was ABN.

of their possibilities, so a couple of times we ran feature articles about them in the Whitman Numismatic Journal.

Today the availability of traveler's checks as a group is greatly diminished as they faded out of daily use into obscurity and final demise, yet when they do show up on the market there seems to be a stronger desire to purchase as collector's items, be they Specimen or used. In fact, now issued pieces sometimes go for more just because they were actually used, somewhat akin to the feeling many collectors espouse about the higher desirability of issued vs. Specimen bank notes.

Among the most highly desired early

Around 1906 the National City Bank of New York was issuing this style of traveler's check; it was lithographed, contrary to most others of those years which were printed from engraved plates. Printer is not known.

Perhaps among the most desired early traveler's checks are those produced for Wells Fargo & Co., for obvious reasons. These were made in five denominations—10, 20, 50, 100 and 20 dollars. Printer was ABN.

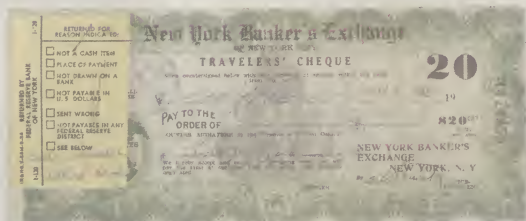

Traveler's checks followed the lead of U.S. paper money with smaller-size versions. This ink blotter was the American Bankers Association's way of popularizing its traveler's checks, but they ceased production in the early 1930s.

This $50 check from the Mellon National Bank is a graphic portrayal of what occurred with such pieces after World War I. All the exchange rates are lined out and the text line "At Current Rates for Bankers Sight Drafts on New York" overprinted.

This lithographed item has some strange characteristics. It was issued by some entity called the New York Banker's Exchange during the Great Depression in 1931. Obviously it failed to go through the system for the reason stated on the rejection slip—"Better address & title of bank." Very possibly the whole thing was a scam.

Traveler's checks for small amounts were not generally made. An exception is seen in this Martins Bank one pound issue that was valid only on board ships of the Cunard Line. Printer was TDLR.
